Freediving is any of various aquatic activities that share the practice of breath hold underwater diving. In 1996, she established the first-ever, constant-weight freedive record for both men and women in the USA. The constant weight discipline in freediving is when the athlete has to dive to the depth following a guide line that he or she is not allowed to actively use during the dive. Meghan captained the first-ever US Freedive team to the World Cup in Sardinia, Italy in 1998.
